

KALEIDOSCOPE

From brown stubble to meadow green
A galaxy of colour can be seen
Autumn, Winter, Summer's hues
Give us colour in many views

Spring primrose and hedgerow green
Gambolling lambs in a Springtime scene
Blue sky, white clouds shimmer
Reflecting in the water of that lazy river

Summer sun - gold on those rolling hills
The water running from creeks and rills
A fiery flash of the dragonfly
Whilst the brown and white cattle stand motionless by

Autumn leaves with their red and gold
The year's story is nearly told
The crops that stood high have given their best
Now the earth sighs and takes a rest

White snow blankets this mortal coil
The colour we saw in that Summer's lane
In Winter time we'll live again
Whilst man at his labours still doest toil

Copyright A E Hobbs 2012